

Public Lecture

the third in a series of annual lectures by Australia's representative at the United Nations

AUSTRALIA AND THE UNITED NATIONS

to be given by

John Dauth LVO
Australia's Ambassador to the United Nations

Thursday 29 January 2004
6.00pm

Law Lecture Theatre
cnr Fellows and East Roads
The Australian National University

2003 was a tough year at the UN. Some of the political problems are endemic and probably can't be fixed. On the other hand, things can be done to make the UN more contemporary and relevant. The risk is that if the Secretary-General's Reform Panel doesn't come up with good and achievable ideas the UN risks sliding into irrelevance.

This lecture is free and interested members of the public are invited to attend.
