Don Anton teaches, researches, and advises in the areas of international law and environmental law. He has been a tenured member of the faculty at the ANU College of Law (ANU) since 2000. He served as Director of the Australian Centre for Environmental Law and Convener of all Environmental Law Programs at the ANU until July 2003. He has taught across a wide range of subjects including International Law, Human Rights, Property, Torts, International Environmental Law, Human Rights and the Environment, Marine and Coastal Law, International Trade and the Environment, International Procedure and Advocacy, Federalism and the Environment, and Environmental Dispute Settlement.

Don consults regularly with government and international organizations. In 2010 he appeared on behalf of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature in the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea. He has been a consultant to the Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, the Australian Fisheries Management Authority, the Great Barrier Reef Marine Park Authority, and the Australian Senate Committee on Environment.

Don is an Australian Research Council Expert of International Standing in international law. He has served on the Executive Council of the Australian and New Zealand Society of International Law and was the Chairperson of the ACT Fulbright Postgraduate and Postdoctoral Awards Selection Committee from 2006–2008. While in practice in the U.S. he served as an Idaho Bar Examiner.

Don has been a Visiting Professor at the law schools of the University of Michigan (2008–09; 2003), University of Alabama (2007), University of Sydney (1997–1999), and the University of Adelaide (1995–96). He served as a Lecturer in Law at the University of Melbourne from 1994–1997. From 1992–1993, Don was employed as a Research Associate in International Law at Columbia University in New York working with Professors Louis Henkin and Oscar Schachter. Don is admitted to practice law in the United States and Australia. He has a law degree from St. Louis University and a B.S. in political science from Central Missouri State University. In "former" lives, Anton has worked as a firefighter at the Pattonville–Bridgeton Terrace Fire District in St. Louis (1978–80) and as an air disaster litigation attorney in Boise (1988–91).
