Efraim Zuroff is recognised as the world's leading expert on tracking and bringing to justice the last remaining Nazi war criminals.

Following in the footsteps of the late legendary Simon Wiesenthal, Zuroff has earned the title of "The Last Nazi Hunter".

His research in the 1980s led to the discovery of hundreds of Nazi war criminals who fled Europe to the United States, South America, Australia, Canada, Great Britain and elsewhere.

In his latest book Operation Last Chance: One Man's Quest to Bring Nazi Criminals to Justice, Zuroff details the many cases he has worked on and the methodology he uses to bring alleged Nazi war criminals and their associates to justice, particularly focusing on the challenges faced with many key witnesses long since having died.
