

Law Student Internship Opportunities

The Centre for International and Public Law (CIPL) will be happy to supervise two student interns per semester as part of the ANU College of Law LAWS2230: Law Internship subject.

Students should go to the webpage on the ANU College of Law setting out the requirements for enrolment in the subject.

<http://law.anu.edu.au/Undergraduate/Internship.asp>

There are various CIPL projects students can work on. Interested students should look at the CIPL website to see the work and activities of CIPL at <http://law.anu.edu.au/cipl/> and newsletters from 2006 and 2007 to see the work of previous interns.

In addition, the Centre's Director, Kim Rubenstein has ongoing projects around Women and Constitutional law and Citizenship and Nationality that could also be part of the internship.

Students who have any questions should not hesitate to contact Professor Kim Rubenstein, the Director, on 6125 0455 or rubensteink@law.anu.edu.au

For further information see:

<http://law.anu.edu.au/Undergraduate/Internship.asp>