

Student Mentoring Scheme:

Helping to Build Relationships
Within Our Law School

At the ANU College of Law we value collegiality. When you become a student in our College we want you to be a part of that collegiality and to feel that you are known and supported as an individual. Critical to that will be the quality of the relationships that you build with staff and with fellow students. To assist this process, 2008 will see the start of an important initiative within the College. The Student Mentoring Scheme will further enhance the supportive learning environment for which the ANU College of Law is known.

All first year law students will be allocated to a mentor group. We anticipate that each group will consist of two academic staff members, a later year student and a small number of other first year students. Mentors will be available to discuss the questions and issues that can arise in being a law student, and to refer students to appropriate sources of support and advice. Mentors will also facilitate the building of relationships between students in their group.

We hope that these relationships will enrich your experience at law school, and will continue throughout your time as a law student, and beyond.
