IS THE UN RESPONSE TO PIRACY WORKING?

Mr Alan Cole OBE, Programme Co-Ordinator, United Nations Office on Drugs & Crime Counterpiracy (UNODC) &
Associate Professor Glenn Ross, Edith Cowan University

Wednesday 19 January 2011, 5.30 – 6.30pm
(followed by refreshments)
Sparke Helmore Theatre 2
ANU College of Law (Bldg 5), Fellows Road
The Australian National University
RSVP: rsvp@law.anu.edu.au (by COB 17 January)

Mr Alan Cole joined UNODC in May 2009 to run the Counter-Piracy Programme from the Regional Office in Eastern Africa. He established programmes in Kenya, Mauritius and the Seychelles to support their criminal justice systems with the investigation and trial of persons suspected of piracy. Prior to this he served for 18 years in the UK Royal Navy in frigates, destroyers and submarines. Alan qualified as a barrister in 1999 and practiced in both civilian and military courts as a prosecutor and defence advocate and subsequently specialised in the law associated with maritime and military operations. He served as the senior military lawyer to the Commander of UK Forces in Iraq and Afghanistan in 2006/07, advising on all aspects of targeting, detention operations and use of force and served on a joint UK/US team in Baghdad engaging with the leadership of Iraqi armed groups. He was appointed OBE for this work in 2008.

Glenn Ross is an Adjunct Associate Professor at Edith Cowan University in the School of Law and Justice where his interests are in corrections, civilian oversight agencies and child protection. Glenn holds Masters degrees in social work, criminology and correctional management, and is involved in the UN counter-piracy programme in East Africa as a corrections advisor.

The views expressed in this seminar are those of the presenter and do not necessarily represent the views of The Australian National University.