Dear colleagues

The Clean Tech Law Series 2015 explores intellectual property, innovation, clean technologies, renewable energy, and climate change.

The Clean Tech Law Series is supported by the Australian Research Council.

» read more

Public seminars

The Trans-Pacific Partnership: intellectual property, the environment and climate change
Friday 27 February, 1–2.30pm

Dr Matthew Rimmer, ARC Future Fellow, ACIPA, ANU College of Law

The Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) is a highly secretive and expansive free trade agreement being negotiated between the US and eleven Pacific Rim countries, including Australia.

» read more » rsvp

Inventing the future: intellectual property, 3D printing, remix culture and the maker movement
Friday 13 March, 1–2.30pm

Dr Matthew Rimmer, ARC Future Fellow, ACIPA, ANU College of Law

3D Printing is a disruptive technology, which promises to transform art and design, science and manufacturing, and the digital economy.

» read more » rsvp

Greenwashing: trademark law, consumer rights and internet domain names
Friday 27 March, 1–2.30pm

Dr Matthew Rimmer, ARC Future Fellow, ACIPA, ANU College of Law

Greenwashing is a pernicious problem, which involves misleading and deceptive representations by corporations in respect of the environment.

» read more  » rsvp

Tesla Motors: intellectual property, open innovation and climate change
Friday 24 April, 1–2.30pm

Dr Matthew Rimmer, ARC Future Fellow, ACIPA, ANU College of Law

This paper considers the case study of Tesla Motors, and evaluates its statements in respect of intellectual property, open innovation, and climate change.

» read more  » rsvp

Mary Robinson’s declaration of climate justice: climate change, human rights and fossil fuel divestment
Friday 22 May, 1–2.30pm

Dr Matthew Rimmer, ARC Future Fellow, ACIPA, ANU College of Law

In a biographical case study of Mary Robinson and her Foundation on Climate Justice, this paper explores climate values in respect of justice, human rights, and development.

» read more  » rsvp