

Bachelor of Laws (Honours)

DURATION: 4 YEARS [FULL-TIME] (SINGLE DEGREE)
5 YEARS [FULL-TIME] (FLEXIBLE DOUBLE DEGREE)

As one of the world's top 16 law schools*, the ANU College of Law allows you to gain a degree that's prestigious, widely recognised and opens doors to careers in Australia and abroad.

Whether you study law on its own or combine it with another discipline as part of an ANU Flexible Double Degree, you'll gain the knowledge, insight and understanding required for success in and outside of law.

During your degree, you'll have the opportunity to undertake internships, international exchanges and real-life research opportunities that enable you to see the law in action.

And at ANU, you'll be part of a law school that places as much focus on being friendly, supportive and accessible as it does academic excellence.

What makes ANU Law the best choice?

Quality	Ranked among the world's top 16 law schools*, the ANU College of Law is known across Australia and around the world for excellence in legal education, research and community engagement.
Location	As Australia's national law school, the ANU College of Law has links with key law-making and legislative bodies, giving you a unique perspective on how law is made, applied and improved.
Community	At ANU, you'll get the benefits of a big city with the support of a small town, and be part of a diverse, friendly and supportive community made up of students and staff from over 45 different countries.
Employability	Graduates from ANU have been named the most employable of any university in Australia for the fourth year running.
Versatility	Whether you study law on its own—or combine it with one of 35 other degrees in a ANU Flexible Double Degree – you'll gain the knowledge required for success in a wide range of careers.
Experience	With a teaching approach that balances theory and practice, ANU Law allows you to 'see the law in action' through internships, international exchanges and research opportunities.
