

FROHLICH WORLD BANK SCHOLARSHIP WITH THE INTEGRITY VICE-PRESIDENCY CONDITIONS OF AWARD

1. INTRODUCTION

Each year The ANU Law School, in The ANU College of Law (“the college”), in conjunction with the World Bank Group’s Integrity Vice-Presidency (INT), may offer an award known as the Frohlich World Bank Scholarship with the Integrity Vice-Presidency (“the award”).

The objective of the award is to provide financial support for the recipient to pursue an opportunity to gain realistic, high-level and varied legal work experience, through a supervised internship of six months, with the Special Litigation Unit at the World Bank’s headquarters in Washington DC, United States. The recipient will work under the guidance and supervision of the Head of the Special Litigation Unit and individual Special Litigation Unit lawyers. The successful recipient will, among other tasks, draft Statements of Accusations and Evidence and other legal documents, review investigative reports for evidentiary support and adherence to the World Bank’s legal framework, assist Special Litigation Unit lawyers in addressing specific legal issues, and partner with investigative teams on specific cases.

Funding for this award has been provided by the Frohlich Endowment in Law.

2. BENEFITS

The value of the award is stated in your letter of offer. The award would normally be used to assist with airfares, accommodation and day-to-day living expenses to undertake the internship. The Internship itself is unpaid, and the only funding the recipient will receive is the award. The duration of the award is six months between June and December. The award is paid in one instalment upon acceptance, unless otherwise stated in the letter of offer.

The recipient is responsible for organising their passport, visa and insurance, as well as any other costs involved in travel and undertaking the internship.

The recipient is eligible for course credit within the ANU Law School’s Internship Program (LAWS4230). The requirement for enrolment in LAWS4230 is agreement to the selected recipient’s proposed research paper by the ANU Convenor of LAWS4230 and the World Bank Supervisor of the recipient.

The recipient is responsible for making payment of all tuition fees by the prescribed date as set out by the University in each session. Recipients of this award are responsible for the costs of books, study materials, accommodation, and all other costs of study.

3. ELIGIBILITY

The award is available each year to a continuing ANU student who:

- (a) is a domestic or international student;
- (b) is enrolled full time in the Bachelor of Laws (Honours) degree (whether undertaken as a single or flexible double degree), or on campus Juris Doctor (JD) degree (whether undertaken as a single or vertical double degree), and has successfully completed at least 90 units of LAWS coded courses;
- (c) is a national of one of the World Bank Group member countries. A list of member countries can be found here: <http://www.worldbank.org/en/about/leadership/members>
- (d) has a strong academic record and demonstrated capacity to successfully undertake a internship with an international organisation.

The INT is interested in candidates with strong critical thinking, writing, and communication skills and who have a proven ability and interest in working in a challenging and fast-paced environment. Fluency in a foreign language, demonstrated interest or experience in international law and development, and past experience working in a multicultural environment would be highly regarded but not essential. The recipient is also expected to be an excellent ambassador for the University and ANU Law.

4. APPLICATIONS

Applications are called for with a closing date set by The ANU Law School. The application is submitted on the prescribed electronic form and supporting documentation forwarded to The ANU Law School by email prior to the closing date. No applications received after the closing date will be considered in any circumstances.

5. SELECTION

Selection is made on the basis of academic merit especially in law subjects, and the suitability of the candidate for the role based on the information provided in their application.

Of those who apply, the ANU College of Law Scholarships Committee will shortlist at least two applicants to the INT. One recipient will be selected by the INT and awarded the scholarship. The Chair of the INT Scholarship Selection Committee has the casting vote should such a decision be required. The final decision of award of the Internship rests with representatives of the INT.

The ANU Law School and INT reserves the right to make no award if it considers there is no applicant of sufficient merit. The ANU Law School and INT may also vary the number of awards and/or offer the award at other times in exceptional circumstances or based on the standard of applications or students.
