THE ANU COLLEGE OF LAW

The Australian National University is consistently ranked as one of Australia’s leading universities and one of the most highly regarded universities in the world.

The ANU College of Law is proud to be a part of this fine university and as a reflection of this we take great pleasure in recognising our high-achieving students. This annual ceremony honours the academic prize winners from amongst a much larger body of talented and committed students.

The ANU College of Law is one of Australia’s leading law schools, with a strong international reputation and many special strengths. For over fifty years it has been home to some of Australia’s best known scholars and law teachers, and has produced graduates who have become leaders in their chosen fields all over the world. It houses or hosts a wide diversity of associated bodies, including the National Judicial College of Australia and the National Centre for Indigenous Studies. The College has around 130 academic, professional and adjunct staff, and over 3000 undergraduate and postgraduate students.
