

Students Expectations & Clinics Requirements

1. Students must attend all seminars, induction sessions, rostered clinic days or clinic sessions.
2. Failure to have 100% attendance in the above will result in a NCN (fail) mark for the course.
3. Exceptional circumstances beyond a student's control can warrant an exception to rule 1 & 2, except in the case of induction sessions where they are a requirement of the course.
4. An application to justify less than 100% attendance must be made in writing directly to the convener, prior to the relevant seminar/clinic day or session. Students must supply appropriate supporting documentation with their application.
5. Exceptional circumstances that warrant approval to be absent include, but are not limited to:
 1. medical reasons (student injury, illness or medical condition) of such significance that presence in the seminar/clinic is not possible;
 2. family/personal reasons (family injury or illness, bereavement) of such significance that presence in the seminar/clinic is not possible.
6. Please note that work commitments will not be considered an appropriate circumstance to warrant an absence.
7. Students who accept their offer into a clinical course must remain enrolled and complete all assessments. Students who no longer wish to undertake a clinical course must contact enquiries.law@anu.edu.au at least two weeks before the start of the clinic. Students who withdraw from the clinic less than two weeks before the start of the clinical course, or after the course has started will not be able to apply for a subsequent clinical course offer.
8. Students must adhere to the ANU Student Code of Conduct when undertaking the clinical course. All communication must be respectful and constructive, free from discrimination or harassment.
9. ANU will not accept any liability for failure of students to comply with the students expectations & clinical course requirements, or failure of students to comply with all laws, health protocols or directions from government Authorities.

Any students accepting a law clinic offer, will not be permitted to apply for any other clinic opportunities offered by ANU College of Law.
